Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 1600 on Wednesday 27 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Rain sleet and snow spreading north on Thursday.

This Evening and Tonight:
The north mainly dry clear and frosty though wintry showers across Shetland. Cloudier in the south, rain reaching the far southwest by midnight, turning to snow on high ground as it extends northeast, reaching Central Belt and North Argyll.

Thursday:
Snow on high ground in south gradually turning to rain, but snow persisting to north of the Central Belt with some heavy falls over some higher ground. Far north brighter.

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Rain sleet and snow clearing southwards on Friday as sunnier skies develop though some wintry showers in north. The weekend mainly dry bright and cold, a few wintry showers.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.